Hyperlink

You have the option of integrating one or more hyperlinks into your document. Here you will find general information about this function.

The Insert link function allows you to insert a hyperlink into continuous text.

Two types of hyperlink are available:

- External link
  By specifying an address (e.g. https://www.google.de/)
- Link to a file
  The file can be chosen via a selection dialog and imported into the Producer document (see "View" tab, "Indirect resources" function)

The Insert link (trigger) function generates a trigger on the hyperlink. This is a good idea if, for example, you want a presentation object to be displayed whenever the hyperlink is clicked. This function allows you to specify that images or textboxes (for example) are displayed as soon as a text hyperlink is clicked or touched with the mouse.

The Interaction function allows you to insert an interaction (for example to access the next page with a click) into the current page.

The Jump function inserts a jump to a desired page. This is activated when the link is clicked.
